Dear honorable members of the Korean Society of Otorhinolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery and distinguished guests from around the world,

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 2020 International Congress of ORL-HNS in conjunction with the 94th Annual Congress of the Korean Society of Otorhinolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery / the 2020 Spring Meeting of the Korean Association of Otorhinolaryngologists. I am honored to serve as the president of the annually hosted ICORL. Thank you for all of your support.

This conference not only enables expanding knowledge on otolaryngology but is also a prime opportunity to share and validate clinical studies and basic research capabilities. Participants can further strengthen their knowledge repository with the newest global expertise insights. I look forward to your support and participation.

April weighs down on the unforgiving cold, bringing a blossoming season of new aspirations. I hope your appetite for new knowledge is satiated through the active engagement in this conference. Recent academic advancement has been the result of continued developments in each sector and the integration of various fields - the boundaries that used to define blocks of academia are becoming fainter, delivering better medical research and quality medical services. This is why we have keynote speakers and invited presenters from both Korea and around the world. I look forward to many experienced doctors sharing their experiences, and young doctors of otolaryngology learning about the newest information and this convergence of academic fields.

Many thanks to Yang-Sun Cho, the chairman of KORL-HNS, Kuk-Jin Park, the president of the Korean Association of Otorhinolaryngologists, the committees and the executive office of KORL-HNS for their unrelenting efforts and support in preparing this conference. I highly appreciate all of your participation in advance.

Thank you.

Jong Woo Chung, M.D., Ph. D.
